In the event the Chickasaw Nation Department of Education receives an inclement weather notice, Early Childhood program employees will route children to the protected areas. The children will remain in those areas until the Chickasaw Nation Department of Education receives notice from the Lighthorse Police Department that it is safe to leave the protected areas. It would be potentially hazardous for Early Childhood program employees to allow children to leave the protected areas during inclement weather. Therefore, it is the policy of the Chickasaw Nation Department of Education that children will not be released to parents/legal guardians during periods of inclement weather if those children are already in protected areas.

I understand that the Chickasaw Nation Department of Education will not release children from protected areas during periods of inclement weather, and I further hold the Chickasaw Nation harmless from any such conduct.
